

Be Humble & Have Humility

As an entrepreneur, there are a few situations where it become especially difficult to remain humble. But to remain humble is one of the most important attributes of a successful business person, as they are always willing to learn & listen. Reflect upon the following situations, and next time they happen to you, try your best to remain humble.

Having one of those great days?

Absorb it and live it up. But think about others. They have their highs and lows too, and your win today is not top of mind for them.

So be considerate and tell them about your day, but ask them about theirs.

Realize that you'll have your own down days, and it is your friends and family that keep you sane.

Feeling along in a room as no one else is an entrepreneur and may not understand you?

Get over it! There are millions of entrepreneurs out there from self employed to inventors, from self made individuals to the next Bill Gates.

A mentor you aspire to be like is one of your best defences here.

Give yourself some time.

Your business is great, but even Rome was not built in a day. Your own business is your passion, but well rounded people have more than one thing they do. Family, friends, hobbies, working out, and having a balanced life pays off in the long run.

TIP: Be humble so that you keep listening and learning.
